Get inspired by fabulous township colours!

Tribal patterns couldn't be more in if they tried – the catwalks of Paris and London were awash with African prints, all sold at exorbitant prices.

But instead of planning a shopping trip to Europe, look at what we have in SA. Township Patterns in Cape Town was founded by Nicole-Marie Iresch, a Parisian who wanted to capture the uniquely expressive patterns and colours of the townships, creating a fashion line that helps sustain local families. Find their dresses, skirts, shoes and more in their Cape Quarter boutique.

Joburg girls are also in for a treat with State of the Nation's wonderfully crafted bags. Along with Chloe Townsend from Missibaba, Romy Stander has taught township women (who are now the shareholders) how to make eye-catching bags that range from envelope clutches to oversized weekend bags. Find them at 44 Stanley in Milpark.
